PRESIDENT JOURNEYS TO OHIO FOR COMMEMORATIVE SERVICE

Harding Declares in Address that World Needs More of the Spirit of Grant

CINCINNATI, Ohio.—It is reported here that a portion of the boiler deck of the Island Queen, one of the steamers in the flotilla conveying President Harding to Point Pleasant had collapsed near New Richmond, Ohio. The president was not on the Island Queen.

POINT PLEASANT, Ohio.—By The Associated Press.—The nation turned Thursday to this little hamlet snuggled at the base of the hills overlooking the Ohio river, to celebrate the one hundredth birthday of one of its presidents and great military leaders, Ulysses S. Grant.

Up the river from Cincinnati came a flotilla of river craft bringing the president, the wife of the president, congressmen, high national officials, uniformed military officers, soldiers, state officials, men prominent in civil life and hundreds of other citizens.

In the presidential party were Attorney General Daugherty; George B. Christian, Jr., secretary to the president, and Mrs. Christian; Brig.-Gen. Charles E. Sawyer, the president's physician, and Mrs. Sawyer; Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant; Mrs. Harry C. Corbin; E. B. McLean, and Mrs. McLean; James Prendergast; Jesse Smith; Dr. George T. Harding, the president's father, and Mrs. Harding; George B. Christian Sr., and Mrs. Christian; Colonels J. A. Penn and T. O. Ashburn special aides to the president, and Congressmen Nicholas Longworth and Mrs. Longworth, A. E. B. Stephens and Charles C. Kearns.

Visits Grant's Birthplace

After viewing the place where General Grant was born, only the lean-to of which still exists here, the house proper having been removed to the state fair grounds at Columbus—President Harding was to deliver an address from a small platform erected near the site of the Grant home. Sound amplifiers will make the president's voice audible to all in the village and to crowds that are expected to assemble in Lyttle Park in Cincinnati, thirty miles away. The president was expected to stress in his address the spirit and qualities of the former president.

Though thousands are expected to participate in the celebration of Gen.

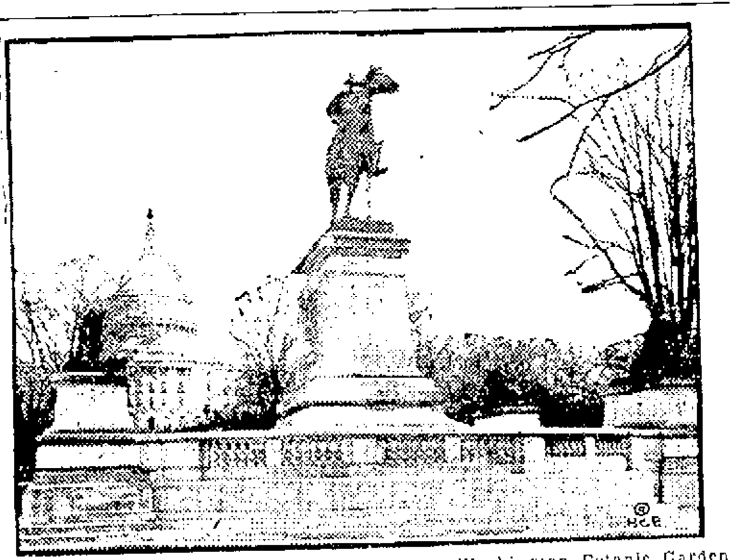
BLUE AND GRAY UNITE IN DEDICATION OF MEMORIAL TO GENERAL U. S. GRANT



Massive Grant memorial unveiled Thursday in Washington Botanic Gardens

WASHINGTON.—The machinery of government was halted Thursday by executive order of President Harding in order that thousands of federal employes and officials, in common with visitors and the citizenry of Washington might do honor to the memory of General Ulysses S. Grant at the dedication of the bronze memorial in the Botanic gardens on the centenary of the birth of the great union soldier and president. Dedication of the memorial was marked with elaborate ceremonies in which surviving veterans of the Blue and the Gray took a leading part. The memorial, which has taken fifteen years to complete, was unveiled by two great grand-daughters of the military chieftain, Miss Edith Grant and Princess Ida Cantacuzene. Secretary Weeks presented the memorial to the govern-

MILLIONS IN FAKE WAR BONDS FLOATED IN U. S. IS CHARGE

Bond Duplication Will Run as High as Four Hundred Million Says Congressman

SAYS GOVERNMENT WILL HAVE TO MAKE GOOD THE FRAUD

Claims Fraud Originally Discovered During Wilson Regime

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Charges that hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of duplicated Liberty bonds are in circulation, were made in the house Wednesday by Representative Royal C. Johnson (S. D.), Republican.

Representative Johnson, despite persistent official denials of such reports, which have been circulated since the recent drastic executive order, discharging bureau of engraving and printing employes, declared that the bond duplications would run as high as $400,000,000. This amount, he said, the government would have to make good.

Johnson's speech created a sensation in the house and led to demands for a sweeping investigation by congress to establish the truth or falsity of the constantly recurring charges.

Discovered During Wilson's Term

The bond duplications, Johnson declared, were originally discovered by J. W. McCarter, formerly assistant register of the treasury department. Mr. McCarter, he said, informed higher officials of the treasury department during the Wilson administration of his discovery, but was told to "keep his mouth shut or lose his position." Johnson mentioned R. C. Leffingwell, former assistant secretary of the treasury, as one of the officials to whom McCarter took his information.

The Wilson administration failed to take any action, Mr. Johnson said. Soon after the Republicans came into power the South Dakota member took McCarter's report and laid it before the department of justice. He was unable to furnish the house with any information as to what occurred thereafter.

WORKERS IN PAPER MILLS REFUSE TO ACCEPT WAGE CUT

Unions in Conference With Manufacturers in Effort to Avoid Strike

"ACCEPT OR STRIKE" IS THE ULTIMATUM OF MILL OWNERS

Union Leaders Demand Renewal of Present Contract

NEW YORK.— Paper manufacturers Thursday offered to withdraw their demands for a wage reduction for skilled workers of the industry if the union would abrogate the scale for unskilled labor. The offer was made to officers of the International Brotherhood of Papermakers, and six allied crafts, in an effort to avert a strike at the expiration of the present contract, April 30. Union delegates immediately went into session to consider the offer.

The operators' offer is founded on their demand that unskilled men be left out of the new contract, the wages to be governed by the going rates for common labor in the localities where employed.

NEW YORK.—Only four days in which to negotiate a new wage contract before the present one expires remained when officers of the International Brotherhood of Paper Makers met with news print manufacturers here Thursday in an effort to defeat a threatened strike of 60,000 men.

The manufacturers' committee, headed by Floyd Carlisle, president of the St. Regis Paper company, had prepared an ultimatum in reply to the craftsmen's refusal to accept their program of wage reduction.

Owners in Ultimatum

"Accept or strike," was the indicated dictum of the manufacturers, according to Mr. Carlisle. They would not compromise a single point he said, in their demands for a ten percent cut for skilled men and elimination of time and a half for overtime Sundays and holidays. Common labor must be left out of the new agreement, the employers declared, their wages to be determined by the going rate for unskilled men in the localities where they are employed. The forty delegates who are here in the interests of paper-makers and other organized crafts employed in the industry, reiterated their refusal to accept the manufacturers' terms.

Demand Renewal of Scale

They had the authority of their men to demand renewal of the present contract, they said, as expressed in the vote upon which they yesterday refused to sign a new agreement on the manufacturers' proposals.

"We accepted a ten percent reduction a year ago," said an official of the brotherhood. "The manufacturers sought last December to enforce another ten percent cut. We refused to accept it and a joint arbitration committee upheld us. This committee further stipulated that no reductions

ACT TO GUARD INTERESTS OF U.S. IN CHINA

Protective Measures Pushed in Anticipation of Civil War Between Opposing Generals

FOREIGN LEGATIONS MAY SEIZE RAILWAY TO KEEP IT RUNNING

American Legation Guard is Strengthened by Jackies from U. S. Cruiser

PEKING. — By The Associated Press.—Measures for the protection of American and other foreign interests have been expedited, in view of the threatened hostilities between the forces of Generals Chang Tso Lin and Wu Pei Fu.

Train service to the coast has not been suspended but is irregular and the legations are prepared to order seizure of the railroad to keep it in operation, should serious interference develop. Thus far nothing but precautionary action has been taken, but it is stated that an allied fleet will land troops, if necessary, to keep communications open between Peking and the sea, in compliance with the protocol of 1901.

One hundred and seventy-five blue jackets and marines are expected to arrive Thursday to reinforce the guard of the American legation. The men are from the United States cruiser Albany, which was ordered north from Shanghai.

The military activities of the opposing generals continue. Wu has concentrated 25,000 men at Pao Ting-Fu, the capital of Chih Li province, and Chang has 30,000 soldiers along the railroad from Peking to the sea.

NURSE STARTS SUIT FOR $25,000; WINONA MERCHANT DEFENDANT

WINONA, Minn.—The suit of Miss Emma Frey, a nurse, for $25,000 damages, against O. J. McManus, former shoe dealer of this city, on charges of assault, was started in district court here Wednesday. R. S. Cowie, of La Crosse, attorney for Miss Frey, in his opening remarks told how Miss Frey met McManus while working on a case in 1916 in the house where McManus roomed, how they were alleged to have kept steady company in 1918 and how the acquaintance, on the part of the plaintiff ripened into love, and that up to June 16, 1920, she had no other suitor. McManus when on the witness stand denied making love to Miss Frey saying that she did the courting. Asked point blank by Mr. Cowie if he were the father of her child, McManus answered that he did not know. He admitted visiting Miss Frey in a La Crosse hospital after the birth of the child. McManus denied, however, that he had at any time promised to marry the girl. In describing the alleged assault on the night of June 16, 1920, at the place where Miss Frey lived, she said she "fought like a tiger."

GAIN CONTROL OF TOWN AFTER TWO HOURS' FIGHTING

Troops Sent to Mullingar in Anticipation of De Valera Meeting on Saturday

DUBLIN.—By The Associated Press.—Debate in the dail eireann today provoked stormy scenes. Arthur Griffith asserted that on the eve of the London negotiations resulting in the Anglo-Irish treaty, Eamon De Valera had asked Griffith to extricate him from the straight-jacket of the republic. Mr. De Valera described this as a "lie" and a turmoil followed.

Mr. De Valera demanded that "Griffith's allegation" be sifted by the judicial committee.

Michael Collins announced that the full correspondence would be published.

LONDON. — By The Associated Press.—Troops of the provisional free state government gained control of the town of Mullingar after fighting, says a dispatch from the Belfast correspondent of the Evening News. An armored car manned by regulars was patrolling the streets at the time the dispatch was filed.

Fight Lasts Two Hours

MULLINGAR, Ireland.— By The Associated Press.— Fighting broke out Thursday between the regular and irregular Irish republican army forces stationed here in anticipation of Eamon De Valera's anti-treaty meeting on Saturday. The hostilities continued for two hours, both sides using rifles and machine guns. One was killed on each side and others were wounded.

Regulars Start Fighting

Various houses have been commandeered by the regulars or provisional government troops, who are reported to have launched an attack on the irregulars. Great excitement prevailed.

The fighting began at 5 a. m. and ended about 7 o'clock. The regulars captured and disarmed a lorry load of republicans.

The buildings bear evidence of the fray, and the merchants refuse to open their stores fearing a recurrence of the trouble. The republicans are still holding the police barracks.

OFFER OF RUSS DELEGATES IS UNACCEPTABLE

Document Being Prepared Outlining Demands Upon Russia and Also What Allies Have to Offer Republic

NEW POLITICAL CRISIS FACES EUROPE SAYS LLOYD GEORGE

Conference Developing into Most Important Meeting in World History

MOSCOW.—By The Associated Press.—The soviet government has sent a wireless message to Foreign Minister Tchitcherin in Genoa embodying a resolution of approval of the Russian delegates policy at the economic conference giving instructions that no concessions be granted the allies which would interfere with the rights or the political freedom of the Russian workers.

GENOA.— By The Associated Press. —Prime Minister Lloyd George Thursday invited Foreign Minister Schanzer of Italy, Vice Premier Barthou of France and Foreign Minister Jaspar of Belgium, to meet him at the Villa de Albertis to reach an understanding over the document to be addressed to the Russians in reply to the Russian counter proposals.

This document will contain not only what is asked of the Russians but also what the allies are ready to offer them.

The sub-commission on Russian affairs will meet Friday to discuss this document and approve in its final form.

No Ultimatum

"It is no ultimatum that will be addressed to Russia," allied spokesmen declared. The delegations of both the inviting and the neutral nations were very anxious to explain this point.

The idea of drawing up a document containing all that Europe is ready to offer Russia was suggested by the desire to put in black and white what the situation really is, so that not only the Russians but the entire world might judge it.

Russian Offer Unsatisfactory

The representatives of the big and little ententes and Portugal expected to have before them in final form Thursday the statement to be presented to the Russian delegates in answer to their counter propositions for the economic restoration of Russia which the allies found unacceptable.

This statement is being drawn up primarily to satisfy England, France, and Belgium, who are the heaviest creditors of Russia. In their answer to the allies, the Russians appear to have made no reference whatever to the war debts which the allies said they were ready to "scale down."

Ignore War Debts

In the English text of the allies' proposals, the phrasing was: "In view of the serious economic conditions in Russia the creditor governments are prepared to write down the war debts owing by Russia to them." The Russians apparently interpreted the words "write down" to mean "write off," in other words, complete cancellation. They therefore ignored the war debts in their rejoinder. What the attitude of the powers will be on this question has not been made clear.

Conference Significant

Meanwhile the conference has developed plainly into one of the most important political world conclaves in history by reason of the momentous problems which have come to the surface since its inauguration.

The Russo-Germany treaty, which many accept as the fore-runner of a great alliance between the formerly mighty nations, has been followed by other political developments, such as the proposed summoning of the Versailles treaty signatories to discuss the measures to be adopted if Germany does not meet her war reparations obligations.

Face New Political Crisis

A further note of gravity was added to the situation by Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain in his address Wednesday night to the American and British press correspondents in which he uttered the warning that a new political crisis was facing Europe.

It is apprehended that the British proposal to call a meeting of the signatories of the Versailles treaty may be regarded as an attempt to evade the express condition that reparations should not be discussed at or in connection with the Genoa conference, says Henry Wickham Steed, in a dispatch to the London Times.

It is therefore thought very doubtful, Mr. Steed adds, whether Pre-

GRANT CENTENNIAL IS OCCASION FOR SPECIAL SERVICES

Rev. E. C. Dixon Reviews Life of Great Man at First Methodist Church

The Grant Centennial was observed at First Methodist church last Sunday evening. The male quartet sang "The Boys of the Old Brigade," and Rev. E. C. Dixon spoke in part as follows:

"One hundred years ago April 27 Ulysses S. Grant, still more generally known as General Grant even though he was twice president of the United States, was born at Pt. Pleasant, Ohio. He died July 23, 1885, after long months of suffering from cancer of the throat.

"In view of the almost sensational circumstances incident to his burial and the erection of a monument to his memory reference to those matters is of interest.

"Urgent request came from three states for the honor of furnishing the great warrior's final resting place. Ohio, because in that state he was born; Illinois, because in that state he was living at the time of his entry into the Union army, and New York, because in that state he had taken up his last residence and had died at Mt. McGregor, in the foothills of the Adirondacks near Saratoga Springs.

"The other claimants finally yielded to New York especially on the assurance most positively given that a fund of half a million dollars would be raised at once for a suitable memorial.

"For seven years little was done in fulfillment of New York's promise although on April 27, 1891, ground was broken for the tomb and in the year 1892 Mr. E. F. Cragin of Chicago came to the relief of New York and in a spectacular campaign, similar to the drives with which we became familiar during the war, $350,000 was raised within sixty days.

"April 27, 1892, the corner stone was laid by President Harrison in the presence of one of the most brilliant throngs ever gathered together in America. Five years more of continuous labor were required for the completion of the splendid mausoleum, for that is what it was most strictly speaking, as the tomb is a close copy in design and dimensions of the original mausoleum erected to the memory of Mausolus by his Queen Artemisia 353 B. C.

Of White Granite

"The structure is composed entirely of nearly white granite from Maine; the lower portion is ninety feet square and seventy feet high, this in turn is surmounted by a conical dome eighty feet in height, and as the whole stands on the edge of the lower palisades 250 feet above the Hudson river it is visible for miles in all directions and in turn offers a most wonderful view of city, water front, ocean shipping, and the distant Jersey short. The noted Albert Memorial in London, St. Marks in Venice, and the Leaning Tower of Pisa are of the same altitude but not one of those historic structures compares with Grant's tomb in Morningside Park for grandeur of situation.

"Wisconsin people are always interested to know that the sarcophagi containing the bodies of the General and Mrs. Grant are of Montello granite, selected as the best in the world.

"Not unnaturally Grant's fame has been obscured by the brighter glory of Washington and Lincoln yet it will be agreed generally that Grant comes next after those two great men, for really the greatest thing about General Grant was not that he smoked many big, black cigars. The great actions and services of his life, his common sense, his self-control, his magnanimity are most worthy of our serious consideration. He might almost be called the ideal of the practical man of every day affairs who waited for his day until it came.

Has Real Vision

"It was at Vicksburg that Grant had the remarkable vision to the effect that he was to be the leader by whom the war was to be won and that he saw the plan he was afterwards to follow, a plan from which he never deviated until the surrender at Appomatox.

"And here again what at first might have been considered the ravings of a disordered mind events proved to be a prophecy.

"Grant was soon called to the east where as in 1861 he was opposed by Halleck. He went into the Wilderness in 1864 and when complaint was made about his methods and his progress he wrote the great dispatch in which appears the sentence: 'I propose to fight it out on this line if it takes all summer.' Lincoln on receipt of it said: 'We shall give this to the country.' When the country read it they rejoiced with great joy.

"Grant was called a butcher yet his greatest losses were small compared with what later wars have shown and it would seem that the outcome belied the epithet and warranted his plans.

"He put his hand to the plow and never turned back till victory was his. And at the last his beautiful spirit was shown again when the troops began to celebrate the final victory. His order then was: 'The war is over. The rebels are again our countrymen and the best sign of rejoicing after the victory is to abstain from all demonstrations in the field.'

"Grant's term in the presidential chair probably did not enhance his renown but when we consider that he undoubtedly had a harder place to fill in many respects than any president ever had we shall not wonder at the difficulties that beset him or that there was so little of sensational or spectacular progress. There was, however, progress of a substantial sort and a settlement of many troublesome problems which laid the foundation for the great prosperity which followed so closely upon his administration.

His Last Great Work

"Having lost most of his property through unfortunate investments and having been smitten with an incurable disease his last years gave little promise of any happy memory but Grant most certainly snatched victory from the jaws of death in a remarkable manner.

"Like the venerable Bede who translated the last chapter of the Bible into English speech the last day of his life and the last sentence but a few minutes before his death, so Grant engaged in the great work of writing his memoirs in the face of impending dissolution won the plaudits of the nation. He continued to write long after speech had failed and concluded the great work just four days before his death, a work which was to bring a competency to his family.

"Of his personal habits it may be observed that his biographer declared that he was never known to utter an oath and Grant himself asserted that to the best of his recollection no oath had ever passed his lips. His word to the officer who said that he had a good story if there were no ladies present is still worth remembering. 'There are no ladies present but there are some gentlemen here.'

"Of the Bible he said: 'Hold fast the Bible as the sheet anchor to your liberties, write its precepts in your hearts, and practice them in your lives. To the influence of this book we are indebted for all progress made in our true civilization, and to this we must look as our guide in the future.'"

Every man should wrap himself up in the mantle of his own integrity.—Horace.

Near East Relief

OF "drives" there seems no end, nor will there be—"the poor we have always with us." But it is not the part of Christian charity or human sympathy to permit the frequency of the appeals to one's purse to blind the eye of mercy to such a cause as that of the Near East relief, which is again before the people of La Crosse. The luckless, helpless brothers of our faith in Armenia and Syria have the strongest claim of all upon our benevolence, for they starve through no fault of theirs, and their situation is one which no effort of theirs can mend. They have no resources save bare life itself, and this hanging upon a thread. There is no commerce, no agriculture in their war-wasted country. If Americans forget them, they have but to die.

Even with all that Americans can do and have done, they die at a frightful rate. The only chance that the Near East Relief can see to save a remnant of the stock is in focussing almost all of its attentions upon the children, and in particular upon the orphans who have not even the poor provision which an Armenian father or mother may somehow make for a child. La Crosse is asked to contribute, really, to the upkeep of a great orphan asylum, in which scores of thousands of youngsters like our own are being fed from day to day on the minimum necessary to maintain life, and being taught occupations which will one day fit them for self-support. Were these orphans in our county, or even in our country anywhere, we should be quick to give to the utmost of our ability. But is a hungry, helpless child less pitiful a few thousand miles away than in your own dooryard? Is its hunger any less pinching?

It takes but little to save the life of a child in the Near East Relief area. The food cost is small and there are no frills. It is a long way to transport food, to be sure, and it costs something to carry the appeal to the people of the United States. But it may be noted in passing that all this overhead does not come out of the relief fund. A number of wealthy philanthropists defray the expense. Every penny that La Crosse contributes will be used to feed a starving child or its mother. Be generous!

The Veto Applied

SPECIFIC instances do not prove general rules, but where a rule has been proven, specific instances afford the high lights. No one will seriously question the general rule of Wisconsin politics that what Senator La Follette says goes as to appoinments, nominations and platforms, but how far what he says goes may be illustrated by specific instances.

That a handful composing his "Expediency Cabinet" has nominated the 1922 republican ticket in so far as La Follette progressives will be permitted to appear in it, is history too recent to need reiteration. In that case the La Follette dictatorship merely usurped the public's right to nominate. In 1920, however, the La Follette Expediency Cabinet went a step farther, and rejected the choice of a body far more representative than the Expediency Cabinet.

The La Follette republican delegation to the republican national convention of 1920 met in Chicago and caucused on a republican candidate for governor. There were two delegates at large and one from each congressional district. Thus the delegation was broadly representative of the state in that someone from each of the congressional subdivisions was present. The vote in the caucus, of which Governor Blaine was a member was reported to have been seventeen for Edward A. Dithmar and three for John J. Blaine.

Thereafter the Nonpartisan League went on record for Blaine and the latter declared his allegiance to the Nonpartisan platform, quite regardless of what the then unborn republican platform might contain. Whereupon the La Follette Expediency Cabinet, repudiating the action of the La Follette delegation to the republican national convention, gently but firmly erased erased Mr. Dithmar from the picture and inserted the likeness of Hon. John J. Blaine. The story has been told and published without denial, and may be taken as history. It is a step further than that taken in the 1922 nominations of the Expediency Cabinet. The Nonpartisan press repeats it as evidence that Governor Blaine was nominated and elected by the Nonpartisan League. The important thing is that a majority of the people did not nominate him, for it was a minority nomination and it is made doubly interesting by the fact that the Expediency Cabinet rejected the will of delegates elected by the people and for it substituted its own sweet will. The incident is an illuminating contribution to the story of how the Wisconsin commowealth is governed from Washington.

Balancing

PRICES of things bought by farmers have dropped an average of a fifth during a year, says Department of Agriculture. This means city folks are getting less money for what they make for farmers. It also means that equilibrium or balance is being restored between farm and city. Farmers' purchasing power increases. A high price doesn't mean anything when there are no sales. What the nation called "the buyer's strike" was largely the withdrawal of farmers from purchasing markets.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

The unsettled condition of the labor question at Paul's mill where the men quit work yesterday has resulted in a great injury to La Crosse. Employers have decided it will be better to shut down voluntarily than to be forced by strikes to suspend operations or concede terms unjust to them. The mills are therefore to be closed down until some definite stand is taken by the men. The announcement this morning fell like a big club on business generally because when the mills close there is a noticeable slump in every line of business.

Contractors have commenced the work of laying the new tile sidewalks on the city building grounds.

Just forty years ago today, April 27, 1892, George Howard, the veteran druggist established the first drug store in La Crosse in a building located at 110 North Third street. Mr. Howard has been continuously engaged in the drug business ever since, and has seen La Crosse grow from a hamlet to its present proportions. There are now twelve drug stores in the city, all doing a good business.

Ex-Senator and Mrs. Angus Cameron will depart this evening for Hot Springs, Arkansas, where they will remain for the season.

Belinda's Brew

By RUBY DOUGLAS

Belinda was worried. A shadow appeared in her dark eyes and a pucker lingered on her lips.

"I certainly would not have set this brew if I had to make this trip to Buffalo. It takes as much attention as a baby.

"Ten pounds of raisins at 30 cents a pound and two pounds of brown sugar at twenty, to say nothing of the tartaric acid—why—it's ridiculous. I can't afford to waste it. And it will be wasted if I do not stir it every day and watch it," Belinda began to wonder what she could do.

There was no one with whom she lived. She occupied her tiny studio alone. There was no one with whom she could burden the brew.

Her trip to Buffalo was necessary. She had promised Harry that on his next shore leave she would visit his mother in Buffalo so that they might both enjoy his holiday together. In fact, she had half promised that she would give him an answer to his proposal at this time.

Now, she seemed to feel it a nuisance to go so far away—just to see Harry. And she was beginning to wonder if this were the proper state of mind for an about-to-be-engaged girl. She was very fond of Harry and very proud of his officer's unform. Not that Harry's uniform had seen any special service but it was becoming, and he had graduated from the naval academy and had been in part of the war zone.

For the moment the uniform and Henry—she called him Henry when she did not feel so kindly toward him—paled into significance by comparison with the home brew in which she was absorbed.

As she put things into her suitcase she decided to be unconventional and ask the young man on the same floor to come in each morning and stir the pot. She had never seen him, but the regularity with which he came and went each morning and evening made her realize that he was a dependable person.

Tom Western, Scotch as a bunch of purple heather, was surprised at the quaint request of the girl whose voice he had heard in the next room to his own. For be it known that Belinda sang and practiced from time to time.

The man's smile was encouraging to Belinda. She observed a long scar across his cheek. Then her eyes sought the expression that was unmistakable—the tale that told of unforgettable destruction. She knew in a minute that the man had fought in the big war.

"Would it—would you think it strange if I asked you to go to my room every morning for a few days and stir my home brew pot?" she asked timidly.

Tom laughed. "I've done harder things than that," he said.

"I am dashing for a train," she went on. "Here is the key. The big stick that lies across the pot is to stir it with, and—and oh, thanks so much."

Tom took the key. "I'll stir it. Don't worry. And—shall I post your mail, perhaps, perhaps?"

"Oh, would you?" She gave him her address. "Don't send papers. Just letters that look as if they might be checks from magazines. I draw pictures and—sometimes I get a check, which I need."

"I'll try to extract some from the postman for you. It will give me pleasure to do these little things for you, so don't worry while you are away."

Belinda loved the succession of r's in his words. In fact, Belinda found herself as she traveled toward Buffalo—and Henry—thinkin far more about the Scotchman's smile and tongue and general magnetism than about the man she was on her way to see. She could see the great scar across his face and the winning smile that obscured it.

"It—oh, no—it couldn't be love—at first sight," she tried to tell herself. "And yet—it is something. I have never felt this way before."

Then she began to wonder if he had liked her. Was she his type?

That she was very much his type Tom Weston had decided as he stirred each day the new hissing brew. He looked about the little studio; he observed the homines-s of it; he decided that Belinda was a domestic girl—as well as a most beautiful one.

One morning the postman brought an envelope that Tom decided must be a check, and this gave him an excuse to send an accompanying note. He explained that the brew was getting noisy and active—temperamental, as he explained it and wondered if it were all right, or if, perhaps, he did not do the right thing by it.

His delight at getting an answer knew no bounds. And it had come back so quickly that he was sure she had not minded writing it.

Belinda had a most uncomfortable visit. Henry—she always called him that now—was not what she had once thought him. He had become, in her eyes, conceited. He thought only of himself, and while he was persistent in his wooing of her, she felt that she would not be missed so greatly if she were to tell him no.

And this she did. She said that she felt that she did not love him enough to marry him.

When she returned to her studio she found a cluster of roses on her desk and a spray of white heather.

When Tom arrived home that night she opened the door of her studio. He almost dashed toward her when he shook her hand. "And—the brew?" he asked, to cover his joy at seeing her. It was the way of the Scot—to hide his emotion.

"Oh, it's all right. Come in and see." Belinda's heart was thumping too quickly.

"The roses?" she asked, looking up at him. "And the white heather?"

"Oh, the heather is to make the checks come quicker. It's lucky, you know."

Belinda held the spray in her fingers, her eyes lowered over it. "And the roses?"

Tom looked into her eyes. "Could I tell you about the roses some other day, please?" He hesitated. "I—I just couldn't tell you now."

Belinda took the situation in her own hands and tried to make it casual. It seemed better.

"Of course you may. Why don't you come in and have a bite with me tomorrow night? I have to eat and so do you, and—it will be time to bottle the brew. Could you help?"

"I could help you do anything," he said.

And it was not long before the landlady in the house had to cut doors between the studios so as to make a real housekeeping apartment. Two of her tenants had decided to be married.

STATE TREASURER RECEIVES INCOME TAX ON MAY FIRST

MADISON, Wis.—Income tax payments are to be made to the state treasury May 1, the tax commission announced Thursday. The amount of revenue to be derived this year from application of the regular state assessment against earnings of its individuals and corporations has not yet been definitely established.

In 1921, over $7,000,000 in income tax was collected after the personal property taxes had been deducted, with only ten per cent of the amount, however going to the state, 70 per cent to municipalities and 20 per cent to counties.

With large incomes in 1920 and lower personal property offsets it is expected that the income tax will be largely increased this year. Surtaxes will be collected for the soldiers educational bonus and the teachers' retirement fund.

Pimples, blackheads and boils—fresh yeast rids you of them

It is well known that pimples and blackheads (acne) and boils are often caused by errors of diet.

Fleischmann's Yeast is now being recommended for these embarrassing and painful skin troubles because fresh yeast corrects the errors of diet which cause them.

The surgeon of one important New York hospital states: "I have used yeast extensively and found it invaluable in curing boils." When 17 cases of pimples were treated with Fleischmann's Yeast at hospitals in New York and Philadelphia the results were remarkable. A typical case was a young man who had suffered from pimples for three years. He ate three cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast daily. In five weeks the eruption had cleared completely.

If you are troubled with pimples or boils, begin at once to correct them by eating 2 or 3 cakes of Fleischmann's fresh yeast daily before or between meals. Be sure it's Fleischmann's Yeast—the familiar tinfoil package with the yellow label. Place a standing order with your grocer for Fleischmann's Yeast.

OVER MILLION TO BE PAID INTO TEACHERS' FUND ON MAY FIRST

Receipt of Money Places Pension Law in Wisconsin in Full Operation

EXPECT COURT ACTION TO TEST CONSTITUTIONALITY OF LAW

Funds Raised by Surtax on Incomes of Over Three Thousand

MADISON, Wis.—A payment of nearly $1,400,000 will be made to the teachers insurance and retirement fund May 1 as the state's first contribution to the teachers of the state under the law enacted by the 1921 legislature, the tax commission announced Thursday. Important problems of administration are involved with receipt of this money which sets the teacher's pension law in full operation.

Court action to test constitutionality of the tax features of the statute is anticipated by the annuity board, charged with the administration of the measure. Certain Milwaukee corporations are said to have already notified the board that they intended to contest the provision which establishes a surtax amounting to one-sixth of the regular income tax on all incomes over $3,000.

It is from application of this section of the statute that the $1,400,000 raised during the present year from $1920 incomes, to meet the state's obligation to the teachers as provided by the law, was secured.

R. E. Loveland, executive secretary of the annuity board, expresses the opinion that the expected attack on the financing provision of the law will be dismissed by the Supreme Court when brought before it, but says that the board does not feel that there is objection to a final test of this section. He has held conference with Attorney General William J. Morgan, to prepare the state's defense should an action be commenced.

The receipt of the tax funds raises the problem of investment which from its first meeting is said to have been the principal subject of consideration by the annuity board. Already over $200,000 has been placed in first mortgages and Liberty bonds, but the $1,400,000 to be paid in by the state on May 1 is reported to involve a question of policy that will result in arrival at a definite plan for investments.

This plan is expected to provide a means of loaning the teachers' money at regular rates of interest on improved farm lands, serving as a source of loans to farmers, at the same time greatest safety is secured. Details of the investment proposal are expected to be settled by the annuity board at its May 13 meeting.

The retirement fund law, Mr. Loveland said, will be in full operation just as soon as the first payment is made by the state. Teachers are making their payments regularly, and funds are accumulating which are credited to the individual accounts as they are invested.

Any surplus from the $1,400,000 received from the taxpayers of Wisconsin, as their payment to the teachers during the first year of operation of the law, will be placed in a contingent fund to meet future obligation.

Several thousand teachers who are not taking advantages of the pension law because of contracts made before it went into effect July 1, 1921, will come under the compulsory provision of the statute at the opening of next year, considerably enlarging scope of the measure.

Teachers are assessed five per cent of their salary to meet their payments to the pension fund, while the state adds to these payments in increasing amounts as the term of service of the teacher increases.

LEATHEM D. SMITH TO OPPOSE "BOB" FOR U. S. SENATE

Sturgeon Bay Man Announces He'll Make Run Subject to Milwaukee Conference

PLEDGES SUPPORT TO CANDIDATE ENDORSED BY THE CONFERENCE

Smith Announcement Expected to be Followed by Others

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—The first candidate for United States senator from Wisconsin in opposition to Senator R. W. La Follette is Leathem D. Smith, Sturgeon Bay. In announcing his candidacy, Mr. Smith states that he will defer to the action of the meeting to be held in Milwaukee, June 1 under the auspices of the citizens' republican state conference and that he will support whoever is endorsed by that meeting.

"We are confronting a political situation in this state probably the most critical in its entire history," said Mr. Smith, "the voter is just awakening to the condition of things. On every side he sees the radicals presenting an almost unbroken front. He sees acting as their leader the man to whom he should be able to turn in this hour of political peril, the sen- for United States senator.

"The voter is confronted with the spectacle of the senior senator appealing to class hatred and greatly complicating the difficult economic problems after the war. A program of protest, with nothing constructive to offer to meet the serious problems of the times, is the senior senator's platform.

We find this man assuming the role of an autocratic boss, handpicking a slate of candidates behind closed doors.

"In sharp contrast to this action is that of the citizens republican state conference in holding a state wide conference which will meet in Milwaukee on June 1. To this meeting will come 2,000 delegates and alternatse, selected in open meeting."

Believing that I am serving the best interest of my state I submit my candidacy for nomination for United States senator to this conference for endorsement. If the people through this conference decide that they want me as their candidate for this office I will make the run. If not I will bow to their judgment and support whoever may be indorsed. There has recently been published in the state press an article written by me entitled 'La Folletism as the Big Issue in Wisconsin,' which thoroughly covers the question."

This announcement by Mr. Smith will it is expected, be followed by others who aspire to the republican nomination for this position. Mr. Smith is one of the leading business men of Sturgeon Bay, being the head of a large stone quarrying and crushing business and shipyard at that city.

Do You Really Understand what a Business Education is?

Wisconsin Business University,

Gentlemen: Received your circular letter the other day and was glad to hear from the old school again.

Do you know that a "WBU" business training gives you a chance to show what you can do? There is nothing else that will open the door of any office for you. You are not wanted unless you can do something well.

The high school student needs this training to "cash in" on the high school education.

Hugh Chalmers, President of the Chalmers Motor Company, says: "The position of Stenographer is the very best training ground for any young man, if he has any brains and if the man he works for has any brains, because he can learn more in that way than in any other I know of."

Edward Bok, Editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, himself a stenographer for some years at the beginning of his career, gave this advice to a young lady, "If you will learn shorthand and typewriting, a position will be awaiting you somewhere in just the line of business that appeals to you most. The competent stenographer does not have to work for a business that is disagreeable to her."

A "WBU" business training will save you years and years of time and effort.

The Crucifixion of a Race

Here is tragedy.

The oldest Christian nation in the world is being crucified on the cross.

Only the spirit of pity and sacrifice that came into the world after Calvary can save Armenia and its people from martyrdom and death.

The black dogs of famine are tearing at the heart of that sorrowing and forsaken country. They have left terror, pestilence and death in their wake.

Christ died to save a world; Armenia is being martyred for His faith.

Her fields are barren and blasted; her people enslaved or homeless wanderers; her children are old in sorrow; they are the only children, perhaps, who have never laughed.

"Hostages of the Future"

These children are the hope of the Armenian people, "the seed corn of a great race."

Owing to a 25% reduction in appropriations, the Near East Relief will be forced to abandon 25,000 of them within the next few weeks, unless you come to their rescue.

These are not the children of the orphanages, but the children of the bread lines, who will rejoin the ranks of the thousands of children in scanty rags who are seen begging for bread or wandering in the roads seeking for refuse unless you help them.

Five dollars a month, sixty dollars a year, will save a life. Can't we count on you to sign and return the attached coupon TO-DAY?

American Generosity has Saved the Lives of a Million Armenians

179 Near East Relief orphanages.
Mess tables extending over 24 miles.
18,000 boys and girls in orphanage at Alexandropol.
200,000 persons served a day at the food stations.

6,259 children in one bread line in Tiflis.
These children are not only orphans, fatherless and motherless, but most of them have no known relative and many of them, orphaned in infancy, do not know their own names.
They are children of Christian martyrs and have no hope except help from America.
Will you let them perish?

SURVEY OF CHURCHES SHOWS INCREASE OF 761,727 MEMBERS

Fifty Denominations Represented in Figures Given Out by Statistician

NEW YORK. — An increase of 761,727 church members in 1921 is reported from 50 denominations, in a survey made by Dr. H. K. Carroll, who several years ago compiled the first official census of religions for the United States government. The reports from which the survey was made were obtained direct from each of the fifty denominations, and therefore represent their own figures.

Four of the chief bodies of the Baptist group are missing from this survey for the reason that their statistical year is the calendar year and no returns for 1921 were available. "If Baptist increases for 1921 were included the total gains of 1921 would almost certainly reach 850,000," Dr. Carroll states.

The 1921 increase compared to that of 1920 which was 844,091, according to corrected returns, Dr. Carrol notes. The present survey appeared officially in the Christian Herald on April 1.

Dr. Carroll's figures show that communicants in 1921 totalled 47,523,206 as compared with 12,761,479 in 1920 and 36,095,685 in 1911. The net gain for the ten years is reported as 7,427,521, or somewhat more than 2 per cent per year.

There was an increase of 88 in the number of churches in 1921, as compared with a decrease of 1,030 in 1920.

WISCONSIN CROP REPORTER TO TAKE JOB IN WASHINGTON

MADISON, Wis. — Joseph A. Becker, for three years Wisconsin's state federal crop reporter, announced on Thursday that he would leave the state on July first to assume charge in Washington of a technical research bureau on the gathering of crop statistics. He will be in Washington two years at the end of which time he may return to the state.

Mr. Becker, born and raised in Hurley, graduated from the university in 1914 taking his masters degree in 1916. Following this he was crop reporter for the state of Ohio for one year and since that time has done this work for Wisconsin. As result of special work done by Mr. Becker he will now assume this new position at the capitol in building up a better system for crop reporting. No successor has been selected for Mr. Becker.

PROGRESSIVES OF PORTAGE COUNTY O. K. BLAINE RULE

MADISON, Wis. — The Portage County Republican Progressive association at its recent meeting, endorsed the administration of Governor Blaine, Lieut. Gov. Comings, Secretary of State Elmer S. Hall, and at the same time approved the record of Herman J. Severson, senator from the Portage district.

The meeting passed a resolution supporting the state La Follette ticket as named by the senior senator, including Governor Blaine for re-election; Herman Ekern for attorney general; Fred Zimmerman for secretary of state; George F. Comings for re-election as lieutenant governor, and Solomon Levitan as state treasurer.

The resolution expressed the hope that Mr. Hall would be elected congressman from the Green Bay district.

Revenge

Revenge is wrong. Let alone that the wisest and best of all judges has condemned it, it blackens the hearts of men. It distorts their views of right. It sets them to devise evil. It causes them to think unjustly of others. It is not the noblest return for injury, not even the bravest way of meeting it. The greatest courage —is to bear persecution, not to answer when you are reviled, and when a wrong has been done you to forgive.—Thackeray.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

KNOT BOARDS ARE SHOWN IN WINDOW OF BARRON STORE

Work of Boy Scouts Furnishes an Interesting Exhibition this Week

In Barron's window, at the corner of Fifth and Main, there can be seen the prize winning knot boards in a contest held recently between troops No. 3 and No. 8. These boards would be hard to excel as far as artistic designs are concerned.

Each boy of the two groups presented a knot board and a committee of some of the council members selected the winners. The first two prizes were Scout Hand Axes and the third, fourth and fifth prizes were Scout knives.

To become a Scout, a boy must be able to tie nine required knots. The first of these is the square knot which is the principal one; second, the bowline, and third, the sheepshank. All other knots are based on these three knots, there are over a hundred possible knots that can be made. Along with the knots some of the contesting Scouts have placed pieces of handicraft such as three link chains, and balls in cages. These are carved out of solid pieces of wood with a pocket knife. This is also one of the requirements before a boy can become a second-class Scout.

Knot-tying and wood carving demand close attention and muscular dexterity which is often times left undeveloped in boys until they become Scouts or have similar training. In learning to tie the different knots a Scout is taught the uses of each knot as well. It is often said that hardly a day passes when some sort of a knot is not used by a boy and even by grown-ups. The average farmer knows but three knots and one out of every twenty farmers knows how to splice ropes. Knowledge of rope splicing is another essential of Scouting. Scout officers are often times called upon to splice farmers' hay ropes.

It would be well worth anyone's time to study the knot boards displayed at Barron's, and it is hoped that every Scout in the city of La Crosse will have a similar board which he has made for himself, which he can hang in his room or study so that when he reaches the age of business responsibility he can reflect on the constructive times of his boyhood, when he was thrown on his own resources and because of his Scout training he was able to accomplish the seemingly impossible in outdoor activities through knowledge gained in Scouting.

The over-hand knot is the simplest knot that can be made, and it is used by the Boy Scout organization in typifying the Scout Good Turn, for that reason from every Second-Class and First-Class pin a small wire tied in an over-hand knot, is suspended. In Scout language this means a "Good Turn."

ALICE FARWELL ON STAND TO TELL OF KILLING OF HOSTEN

Describes Enmity of Brother Toward Her Sweetheart Which Ended in Death

MADISON, Wis.— The story of her love for Phil Hosten, a Belgian farm-hand, of their clandestine meetings on her brother's farm, and of his bitter enmity toward her sweetheart, will continue to be unfolded by Alice Farwell Thursday on the stand at the trial of Harwell Farwell, charged with first degree murder, for his confessed slaying of Hosten.

At the cross-examination late Wednesday, the middle-aged spinster told how her brother had objected to the attentions of Hosten toward her, and how on a former occasion she had heard shots which Hosten had told her had been fired at him. On the night of the killing she said that Hosten had rapped on her window shortly after her brother had gone upstairs, and described how she had gone outside and told him to "get out as fast as you can, because Hart's in the house."

Hosten was said to have run toward the fence in the farm-yard, while she turned back into the house. According to her story she heard no shots fired, although Farwell is supposed to have fired the fatal shots at the man shortly after his meeting with Miss Farwell. She asserted that Hosten had no club, stick or gun with him when he met her at the corner of the house on the night of the slaying. She testified that he had carried a gun on two former occasions.

Miss Farwell is considered the principal witness at the trial, and with the conclusion of her testimony the state is expected to examine few more witnesses before resting its case.

BLUE AND GRAY UNITE IN DEDICATION OF MEMORIAL

ment, and Vice-President Coolidge accepted it, acting for President Harding who, fulfilling a previous engagement, was honoring General Grant in an address at his birthplace at Point Pleasant, Ohio. The memorial is dedicated to the nation by Union and Confederate veterans.

The ceremonies of dedication were preceded by a military parade from the White House down Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol in which participated all regular army, navy and marine corps forces in the Washington district, a corps of cadets from the Military Academy, a battalion of midshipmen from the Naval Academy, members of the Grand Army of the Republic and of the United Confederate Veterans and representatives of various veteran and patriotic organizations. Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles was grand marshal of the parade.

Among World's Largest

The Grant memorial is one of the largest groups of statuary in the world. The equestrian portion of it is said to be exceeded in height only by the statue of Victor Emanuel in Rome. Fifteen years have been required to bring it to virtual completion.

The entire memorial, which with Thursday's dedicatory ceremonies takes its place in the national capital with the soon-to-be dedicated Lincoln memorial and the great monument which has stood for half a century as a memorial to Washington, is a beautiful work of art. Occupying a position of prominence at the east end of the Botanic Gardens facing the Capitol grounds it has been approved by Augustus Saint Gaudens, Charles F. McKim, Daniel C. French and other prominent American artists.

The marble superstructure on which the various groups stand is 252 feet long, 69 feet deep and five feet above the ground. An equestrian statue of Grant stands on a high central pedestal at the west side facing the Washington Monument and Lincoln memorial at the other end of the Mall. Lower pedestals at the north and south ends support massive groups of cavalry and artillery, respectively. The infantry arm is to be represented by bronze bas-reliefs to be placed on the sides of the main pedestal—this being the only part not completed.

Shows Action and Repose

The finished work represents an intermingling of action and repose. At each end, upon the flanked exedras, are colossal groups of struggling men and horses in all the paraphernalia and trappings of war. The group at the north end represents cavalry and the group at the south artillery. They face inward and picture a mad rush toward the center, across the wide stretch of marble that separates them from the mounted figure of the great commander in the center. The statue of Grant on horseback surveys it all. The military leader as portrayed wears the familiar slouch hat and military cloak of Civil war days. His pose is that of a reviewing officer and is said to be a fine conception of that quiet keenness and resolution that marked the man.

Grant in Repose

The giant bronze horse partakes something of the life and action that rages in the artillery and cavalry groups and seems to emphasize the calmness of the rider. That impression is heightened by the bas-reliefs of infantry designed for the sides of the pedestal on which he stands. One of these shows the foot troops in heavy marching order, trudging along doggedly on one of the forced marches that were part of their daily lives in the 'sixties, and the other bas-relief shows the infantry in battle.

At the four corners, near the base of the pedestal, are large bronze lions, couchant, emblematic of courage and strength. Each is protecting the American standard held in an outstretched paw. Around the superstructure are eight ornamental bronze candelabra.

The cavalry and artillery groups have been in position for several months and have been the objects of considerable interest to artists, tourists and the public generally. An idea of their size is conveyed by the statement that the cavalry group alone weighs 15 tons. Special artillery and cavalry drills were given at West Point Military Academy and other posts to aid the sculptor in the development of his designs for these arms. The finished products are regarded as highly realistic and complete in detail.

Designer Dead

Before the final memorial was completed or contracted for, 27 designs were submitted and the award finally was given to Henry W. Shrady who died a few weeks ago, and Edward Pierce Casey, architect, of New York. The erection of the statue was authorized by Congress 21 years ago, but various causes contributed to the delay in the completion of the memorial. Chief of these was the strong opposition to the erection in the Botanic Gardens on the ground that the site was on the axis between the Capitol, the Washington monument and the Lincoln memorial.

In October, 1907, contractors began making excavations for the foundations of the memorial, but hardly had they started when an order from the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia stopped the work, requiring the contractors to show cause why they should not be enjoined from cutting down certain historic trees in clearing for the site. It was not until May, 1908, that the contractors were able to resume work. The original contract called for the completion of the memorial within a period of five years, but it became necessary to extend that limit several times. The cost of the memorial is estimated at about $300,000.

U. S. OBSERVES CENTENARY OF GRANT'S BIRTH

Grant's birthday, but few are they who will be able to say they knew him personally. Only one such person now lives in this vicinity. He is William Forrester, civil war veteran. He has been assigned to a place of honor near the speaking platform. This is the second Grant celebration here. The first was in 1907 when a cannon was mounted in front of the site of the Grant home. It did not bear the national aspect, however, which the present one bears.

Galena Celebrates

GALENA, Ill.—Decked in the national colors, which flew from every store and house in this picturesque little town among the hills, and crowded by thousands of visitors, Galena Thursday paid tribute to her most distinguished citizen—General Ulysses S. Grant.

Large delegations visited the Grant Memorial home, the general's home before the Civil war when he worked as a clerk in his father's store, and the tiny office where the union leader received the election returns which made him president of the nation he had helped to save.

Although the weather was too cool to hold the memorial services in Grant Memorial park, many visitors went to the spot before the afternoon exercises, at Turner hall.

KNEESKERN FOUND GUILTY OF KILLING MRS. VAN BROCKLIN

Jury Recommends He Be Sentenced to Life Imprisonment at Hard Labor

DECORAH, Ia.—B. F. Kneeskern, wealthy Castalia, cattle buyer, on trial for the murder of Mrs. Irene Van Brocklin, was found guilty of first degree murder by a jury in district court here Wednesday night.

Life imprisonment at hard labor was the sentence recommended by the jury which had deliberated six hours and seventeen minutes.

Mrs. Charles Van Horne, Kneeskern's sister, collapsed when the verdict was read. She was carried from the court-room shrieking "He can't be guilty." Kneeskern maintained his poise, although his eyes were wet with tears.

Defense counsel announced he would seek a new trial.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Brocklin were shot to death on December 11, 1921, in their log cabin home near Franksville, Winneshiek county. Van Brocklin was 21 years old and his wife was 19. Elmer Van Brocklin, brother of the murdered man, was arrested a few hours after the bodies were discovered. After a lengthy preliminary hearing behind closed doors he was released and Kneeskern was taken into custody.

The state charged that Kneeskern committed the murders when his alleged relations with Mrs. Van Brocklin were discovered by the husband.

Deufense attorneys contended that the crime has been committed by Elmer Van Brocklin, citing alleged threats which they said he had made to his brother and sister-in-law due to their reported intention of testifying against him when he was arraigned on a charge of stealing corn from a neighbor.

4 Men in 7 Bald at 40
—Yet 95% Needlessly

THIS is to offer you, under absolute money-back guarantee, the new Van Ess Liquid Scalp Massage, which, under clinical tests, grew hair on 91 heads in 100.

Records show 4 men in 7 are bald, or partially bald, at 40. But modern science proves only 5 men in 100 need ever be bald!

Baldness is not a disease. Note this fact and mark it. It is merely a symptom of infection.

95% of all hair troubles are traced, to infected Sebum. Sebum is an oil that forms at the roots of the hair. Its natural function is to supply the hair with oil.

But it cakes on the scalp. It forms a natural breeding place for bacteria. It clings to hair and destroys it. It lodges in hair follicles and plugs them. Then germs by the millions start to feed upon the hair. Semi-baldness soon is marked. Then comes total baldness.

You can see this Sebum on your scalp in the form of an oily excretion. Or, when dried, as dandruff. But it does not kill the roots. Hence when you remove it, new hair grows. This is scientific fact—medical authorities will tell you so. You must remove the infected Sebum.

This new method reaches the roots. It makes hair grow. We guarantee it. You take no chance of loss.

We guarantee to stop falling hair in three weeks. We guarantee to grow new hair with continued use. If we fail your money back without question.

Note that your own druggist signs the guarantee. Thus you assume no risk.

Go today to any druggist's. Obtain the Van Ess treatment. With it you will get our guarantee, signed by the druggist from whom you buy it. Van Ess Liquid Scalp Massage, made by Van Ess Laboratories, 5007 Lake Park Ave., Chicago, Ill.

60 MILLION DROP IN RETURNS FROM WISCONSIN FARMS

MADISON, Wis.—The gross income of Wisconsin farms fell to $259,000,000 this past year, from the peak of $415,000,000 in 1919, the crop services reports. This represents a decrease of $160,000,000 in value in 1920, and is said to be lower than the pre-war value of 1914, although official figures are not available for that time.

The portion of the farm income attributable to livestock has increased constantly since 1917, and in 1921 was the highest ever, or 81.7 per cent of the total. Livestock values are reported to have held up much better than crop values.

The late styles seem early.

In vaudeville she is singer, dancer and comedienne, and she is assisted in her act by two other youngsters and a cut little poodle. BEBE DANIELS—RIVOLI

Bebe Daniels has the reputation in Hollywood of being the best little sport in the colony about accepting hard stunts as part of her picture work. She cheerfully cavorts over roof-tops, dives from terrifying heights, drives at terrifying speed, jumps out of windows, etc.

But in "Nancy From Nowhere," which is now paying at the Rivoli Theater, she gives final and conclusive proof that she will do anything in the interests of a good picture.

Her ultimate sacrifice has not been of her personal safety but of her beauty. In several scenes she is shown stealing a ride on the back of an automobile and as the dust of the California roads gradually settles upon her, she takes on a more and more grimy appearance until at the end of her ride she looks like a veritable little scare-crow. Of course she reappears in the next scene more radiant than ever, but she has proved none the less, that her devotion to her art is unique.

"MYSTERY ROAD"—MAJESTIC

Southern France is beautifully pictured in "The Mystery Road," a Paramount British-made picture featuring David Powell, which comes to the Majestic theater today. Scenes were photographed at various points along the French Riviera, and despite the remoteness of many of them the filming operations were watched by large and curious crowds.

The story of "The Mystery Road," an original one written by E. Phillips Oppenheim, deals with a young Englishman whose follies bring him along the mystery road of life to the inevitable hour when one must come to the realization that folly doesn't pay. There is a beautiful love theme, and the romance and drama of the production are highly impressive, Nadja Ostrovska, Mary Glynne, Pardoe Woodman, Ruby Miller Percy Standing and Lewis Gilbert play the leading supporting roles.

RIVIERA TODAY

Viola Dana sets the pace to the goal of hilarity and decidedly clever entertainment in her latest Metro production, "Glass Houses," at the Riviera Theater today. Vivacious little Miss Dana is seen as Joy Duval, who with her sister, Cicily, loses the money they had inherited. Joy makes herself up as a caricature office type in "sensible" clothes and horn-rimmed glasses, takes the name of "Jane Brown," and becomes a companion to Aunt Harriet. The latter is mainly concerned with the reform of her nephew, Billy Norton.

CASINO TODAY

"The Black Panther's Cub" was made at W. K. Ziegfeld's big Fort Lee Studios in New Jersey. All of the interior scenes were made under artificial lights which enables a director to obtain many effects that are not possible to get under natural light. The exterior scenes were also made in the East.

As the locale of "The Black Panther's Cub" is laid in the English countryside and in Paris, it was necessary to build a number of special sets. In one instance an entire farm was reconverted after the English style and when finished so closely resembled an old English estate, that Norman Trevor, one of the principals in the production, who is an Englishman, asserted that it made him homesick to play in the scene.

STRAND FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

A new star in the person of Rex Ballard has made his appearance on the photoplay horizon, and we hasten to welcome him with the hope that we will see him often in pictures like "Across the Divide," at the Strand Theater, Friday and Saturday. He is a welcome relief from the too-numerous namby-pamby heroes who possess little besides good looks to recommend them. Mr. Ballard is a rugged and forceful type of virile manhood, and, after seeing his dual performance in "Across the Divide" there can be no doubt left as to his ability as an actor. He is given splendid support by Rosemary Theby as his co-star.

RIVIERA SUNDAY

Pierre Benoit's sensational novel "L'Atlantide," which was crowned by the French Academy, has been made into a powerful photodrama under the title of "Missing Husbands." It has been obtained by Metro Pictures Corporation as its newest release and will open an engagement at the Riviera Sunday where Manager Cooper has arranged an especially noteworthy presentation. "Missing Husband's has been the sensation of Europe since its initial publication in book form about two years ago. In producing the screen version of "L' Atlantide" no expense was spared in the selection of the cast or in the settings, the latter being as spectacular as they are elaborate.

DISCOVER PROCESS MAKING POSSIBLE LOWER GAS RATES

SAN FRANCISCO.—A reduction in the price of gasoline and the addition of ten billion gallons annually to the California refineries outpuo will result from the success of secret experiments conducted in San Francisco for a period of more than three years, according to statements made by C. P. Bowie, petroleum engineer attached to the United States bureau of mines here.

Bowie stated that reports showing entire success of long and patient experiments in the refining of heretofore practically waste oil products were being prepared and would be forwarded to Washington in a few days.

The process as explained by Bowie, will make possible the production of gaseline in immense commercial quantities from asphaltum, oil shale, oil waste, tar and tar with "below grade" oil, all of which heretofore have baffled every effort to wrest from them the gasoline they are known to contain.

NEED CHEAPER POWER FOR DEVELOPMENT OF MINERAL RESOURCES

Hundreds of Millions in Ore Declared Available in Three Wisconsin Counties

FIRST MINING IN STATE DONE BY INDIANS IN THIS SECTION

Mine Possibilities Discovered by Whites in 1822

MADISON, Wis.—Cheap electric power is the real need of Wisconsin's zinc and lead mining district for full development of the mineral resources to be found in this little exploited section of the state, the Platteville mining school declares. Hundreds of millions of dollars in ore is said to be available in the three mining counties of Grant, Iowa and Lafayette.

With products valued at approximately $79,671,000 already taken from the mines of this mineralized area, the investigators of the school say that only two or three per cent of the district has been proposed or developed with a potential source of wealth to the state existing there for many years to come.

This mineralized section is described geographically as part of the non-glaciated area of the upper Mississippi valley and is said to be little known to the people of the state who have not been brought to realize its importance nor the possibilities for development of future wealth. Over 2,500 square miles are included in the district.

Here it was that the first mining in the state was done by the Indians who took lead for their weapons and tools. The whites are reported first to have discovered the mining possibilities of the district in 1822 when they discovered lead.

The development of Potosi, Hazel Green, Platteville, Shullsburg, Mineral Point, Highland and a number of other cities followed as miners came into the new country. Their first mining was of lead and it was not until 1862 that the first zinc carbonate or "dry bone" mining was begun. In 1875 zinc blende, now the principal product of the district became valuable commercially.

As a by-product of the mining, there is sufficient lime-stone if crushed, to provide commercial fertilizer for all the farms of the state in need of an alkaline substance. Experiments by the mining school working in conjunction with the United States bureau of mines, are said to have shown how operators can save $1,250,000 annually which formerly was wasted.

With possibilities of developing power from the Wisconsin river which forms the northern boundary of Grant and Iowa counties, it is expected that the whole district will be a source of increasing wealth to the state during the coming years.

In 1883 the legislature as an aid to the industry enacted a statute exempting the property of corporations mining zinc from taxation.

GUSTAVE OF SWEDEN HAS NARROW ESCAPE IN AUTO ACCIDENT

GENEVA.—By The Associated Press.—The narrow escape from serious injury of King Gustav of Sweden, in the automobile accident at Grenoble, France, Wednesday, was due to the fact that he was sitting in the chauffeur's seat, it was explained on his arrival here. Physicians found only contusions.

The automobile in which the king was traveling from Nice was struck by a machine owned by a Geneva banker. The king's chamberlain was gravely injured. Gustav has left for Baden, Germany, where he will join Queen Victoria.

CLOSING OF RAFT CHANNEL URGED AT BIG MEETING

CALEDONIA, Minn.—The hearing on closing Raft Channel in the Mississippi river below Brownsville for commercial fishing which was held at the city hall in compliance with a petition circulated by the Caledonia Rod and Gun club and others, turned out to be a very successful and interesting meeting and was attended by a large number fo the local fishermen and others from the neighboring towns.

Carlos Avery, state game and fish commissioner, conducted the hearing and heard the complaints and arguments for and against. Mr. Williams of Brownsville and Mr. Gillette from Genoa, Wis., who are both extensively interested in commercial fishing, presented their case against the closing. Mr. Avery did not commit himself before he left town as to what action he would take in the matter, but some of the local men seemed to get the impression that Raft Channel may be closed for commercial fishing except for the months of September and October, when seining will be allowed but must be conducted under the supervision of the game warden in order that the game fish would be protected.

The meeting was very instructive as Mr. Avery explained the game and fish laws and brought out many points unknown to the local sportsmen.

ATHLETES FROM LEADING UNIVERSITIES GET SET FOR ANNUAL OUTDOOR RELAY GAMES AT DRAKE ON COMING SATURDAY

CHICAGO, Ill.—Athletes representing the leading universities and colleges in the middle west will start on their way toward Des Moines, Ia., Thursday for the annual outdoor relay games of Drake university, Friday and Saturday.

This set of games, the feature of the early outdoor track and field season of the middle west, has attracted a larger field of entries than ever before in the history of the event. Numbers of coaches have decided to send teams or individuals to the Drake games instead of to the Penn meet, which will be held on the same days.

Competition to Be Keen

Not only are the major universities entered, but the competition between the minor colleges is expected to be just as keen as that between teams of the Western and Missouri valley conferences. Special events have been listed for the colleges who are sure to share honors with Illinois, Ames, Wisconsin, Nebraska, Notre Dame, Iowa, and Minnesota.

Indications are that Illinois will win the four mile relay without much opposition. McGinnis, Wharton, Patterson, and Yates are a formidable quartet, and a team to beat them must average better than 4:28.

Star Individual Events

Notre Dame will make a strong bid for the half mile or sprint, relay. Coach Knute Rockne has two fliers in Bill Hayes and Gus Desch, while the other members of the quartet are expected to do close to :23 for each of their furlongs. Iowa will also be strong in this event with Brookins and Wilson, the two best runners on the team.

SPRING GRIDDERS AT MINNESOTA TO PLAY FULL GAME

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.— A full time football game between the first and second teams of the University of Minnesota squad will be played on Northrup field here next week as an innovation in the spring football training program under the new coach, W. H. (Bill) Spaulding, it was announced Thursday.

The game will be played after class hours at the university, in order to give the entire student body an opportunity to judge what is being accomplished in the way of providing them a winning team next fall. The open practice game, it is understood, will be the beginning of a policy to allow the student body to see their team work out all the year.

The Idle Rich

A poor family unexpectedly came into possession of a fortune. They purchased a farm, with hens, cows and pigs. One day a little daughter of the family was showing a visitor about the place.

"Do your hens lay many eggs?" he asked.

"Oh, they can," was the haughty reply, "but in our position they don't have to."—Toronto Telegram.

ROD & REEL
By DIXIE CARROLL

PLUGS AND PLUGS

They are with us by the hundreds and even thousands, the various-shaped wooden plugs, painted in every color in the deck and then a few extra cubist daubs thrown in for luck. And here's the funny part, old chap, they all seem to get the fish, more or less, according to the expertness of the manipulator of the rod.

Although the majority of the artificial baits do not resemble any natural bait, that is, not that you could notice without first having read their pedigrees, through some inexplainable reason the fish strike them, and, as they generally have hooks galore, even the beginner has no difficulty in hooking his fish; fact is, many times the fish hooks itself. Of course you'll have to jot this down in your dreambook, "Hookin' 'em doesn't always mean landin' 'em."

Probably when a highly cultured bass sees one of these gloriously decorated affairs splash in his haunt grounds he ups and makes a dash at it in anger at the rough-neck intrusion of the queer-looking object, or perhaps strikes it in pure cussedness, egged on by the wonderful movements of the little demon in its wobble back home to the caster.

How they ever dug the big bunch out of the woodpile and got away with it the eighth wonder of the world. More power to 'em. What would a fellow do if he couldn't browse around among a bunch of new ones and select a few to take along on each trip and try them out on the unsuspecting fish. Every time you get a new selection you have a sneaking idea that you have perhaps at last found the "killer" you are always on the lookout for.

La Crosse "Y" Invades Winona Thursday For Participation In Great Carnival of Sport Events

Hip! Hip! Hooray! On to Winona! This is the shout that may be heard at the local Y. M. C. A. today as officials were mustering their forces for an athletic offensive on the Winona "Y" late this afternoon and evening. Presparations were being made throughout the day for the trip to Winona in automobiles of a score or more athletes here to participate with the Winona association men in a "swat fest" to include twelve indoor sports.

All Indoor Sports

The fest or athletic carnival will include all indoor sports from chess to basketball and promises to yield much fun and amusement to spectators in Winona as well as the many who contemplate making the trip with the La Crosse delegation. While the "Swat Fest" is not an entirely new idea, it is the first ever to be held in Winona. The event is much similar to athletic carnivals which many colleges have held.

On the bill of events will be found neary every indoor sport which any program for athletic competition would carry. There will be three basket ball games, handball, volleyball and other gym events along with swimming stunts and pool and billiard matches. Checkers and chess have been included on the card. There will be something doing all the time in which the most conservative sportster may participate.

Start in Afternoon

It is planned to start the events in the afternoon and continue through the evening until the various events have been run. Admission may be charged to cover the nominal expense of putting over the fest. It was announced that a similar event has been arranged between the La Crosse and Eau Claire "Y's" to be held soon.

The sporting event in Winona today has created a lot of interest in spite of the fact that the indoor sport season is nearly over. The La Crosse volley ball team is going up there with blood in their eyes to avenge the defeat handed them by the Gophers earlier in the season. In view of the varied program, every sport follower will find something that will be of interest.

The cars bearing the La Crosse delegation will leave shortly afternoon, returning to this city after the program is completed tonight.

LEAGUE LEADERS TO ROLL CHAMPIONSHIP MATCH FRIDAY NIGHT

The Montagues and the Hotel La Crosse, winners of the commercial and city bowling league respectively, have been matched in a game for the championship of the city on Friday night at the Lotus alleys. The game has been set for 8 o'clock. Great interest has been aroused since the announcement of this match game and it its expected that many spectators will be on deck to witness the contest.

More Head than Heart

Mother: Jessie, the next time you hurt that kittie, I am going to do the same thing to you. If you slap it I'll slap you. If you pull its ears I'll pull yours. If you pinch it I'll pinch you. Jessie (after a moment's thought): Mamma, I'll pull its tail. —Life.

HOREMANS RUNS 818 POINTS IN EXHIBITION 18.2 MATCH IN GOTHAM

NEW YORK.—Edouard Horemans, Belgian cue star, Wednesday night established what experts declare is the highest run on record when he tallied 818 straight points at 18.2 balkline billiards. Horemans made the run in a three block special match of 900 points with Edward W. Gardner of New York, former national amateur champion. The final score of the match was 900 to 84.

While Horeman's mark is the longest on record in the memory of veteran followers of the game here, it will not go down as an official record because it was an exhibition game. The highest run officially recognized was by Willie Hoppe when the former champion hung up 622 points in a match with the Frenchman Cure in Paris, in 1911.

YANKEES' WINNING STREAK IS BROKEN BY ATHLETICS

White Sox' Timely Hitting Whips Indians, 7 to 3

ST. LOUIS.—Bert Cole, a recruit southpaw of the Detroit club, broke the St. Louis club's winning streak here on Wednesday, shutting out the Browns 2 to 0. Kenneth Williams' home run streak also was shattered. The best he could get was two singles in four trips to the plate. The score:

Detroit ....010 100 000—2
St. Louis ....000 000 000—0

Batteries: Cole and Bassler; Bayne, Henry, Pruett and Severeid.

NEW YORK.—The Philadelphia Athletics broke New York's winning streak here on Wednesday, winning the last game of the series, 4 to 2, by virtue of a ninth inning rally. It was New York's first defeat on the home grounds this season. Score:

Philadelphia ......000 001 003—4
New York ....100 000 100—2

Batteries: Rommel and Perkins; Jones and Schang.

Sox 7; Indians 3

CLEVELAND.—Bagby's lack of control, with timely batting by Chicago and Cleveland errors allowed Chicago to defeat the locals on Wednesday 7 to 3. Cleveland outbatted the White Sox but two double plays hurt the Indian's chances of scoring. Stephenson's batting was the feature. He made two doubles and a triple. Score:

Chicago ....010 202 020—7

You can't make FINE CIGARS unless you command a supply of FINE TOBACCOS
The exceptional tobacco buying advantage enjoyed by the makers of Harvester Cigar
ALL the filler tobaccos used in the Harvester cigar come from Cuba, whose sun and soil, rains and mists produce the aromatic flavors without which no cigar can be called "fine."
All the wrappers used in Harvester come from a little stretch of land along the Connecticut River. There, under acres of cloth, is grown a quality of "shade" wrapper leaf the like of which the tobacco world never saw until a few years ago.
To select skilfully from the crops offered annually in these two great markets, calls for judgment of a rare order and for experience that can't be deceived. So far, so good.
But to procure the lots of tobacco, after you have selected them bale by bale, calls for buying power, pure and simple. That means, ability to buy in large volume, backed by the cash in hand.
The outstanding reason why Harvester cigar has built such an impressive success in so few years is—tobacco.
Its makers—the Consolidated Cigar Corporation—have every advantage of buying experience and buying power. They command the best the crops yield. Second place is not for them.
Harvester is a fine cigar because it is made of fine tobaccos.
It's a cigar, men—a real one.

ERIE STOCK ADVANCES

Boost Comes on Reports Cleveland Interests Seek Control of Road; Other Rails Heavy

NEW YORK—Lake Erie and Western preferred rose five points on the stock exchange Thursday on reports that Cleveland interests are seeking control of the road. Other rails showed greater heaviness, however, losses of one to three points being sustained. Motors, steels, equipments, utilities and food specialties continued their downward course but oils showed temporary improvement on a rally by Mexican Petroleum and renewed buying of California Petroleum and Barnsdall issues.

Other reaction set in before noon, several leaders falling to lower levels. Call money opened at 3½ per cent.

Initial dealings in the stock market were characterized by further free selling of rails, oils, steels and utilities. Canadian Pacific lost 2¾ in the first few transactions and declines of one to two points, accompanied by the offerings of Illinois Central, Mexican Petroleum, Bethlehem, Manhattan Elevated and Pierce Arrow. The market's stronger side was represented by New York Air Brake at a six point gain and Lake Erie and Western preferred, which advanced 1¾. Moderate unsettlement was shown by foreign exchanges on over-night advices from Genoa.

WHEAT IN SETBACK

Profit-taking on Early Advance Leads to Lower Prices in Thursday Trading

CHICAGO, Ill.—New setbacks in the price of wheat took place Thursday after a brief showing of strength at the opening of business. Initial gains were apparently due more or less to assertions that on late breaks in the market Wednesday there had been large foreign purchases both of old and new crops. Upturns led to profit-taking sales which together with continued favorable crop reports from the southwest caused the market to drop. The opening, which varied from unchanged to 1¼c higher, May $1.40 to $1.41 and July $1.24¾ to $1.25¼, was followed by declines all around to well below Wednesday's finish.

The descent of values carried the market to the lowest level touched of late, $1.38⅝ for May delivery, but then enlarged buying set in and the course of the market was irregularly upward the remainder of the day.

Unfavorable weather gave comparative firmness to corn. After opening unchanged to ⅛c lower July 63⅞ to 64c, the market scored slight further gains.

Subsequently the seaboard sent word of good sized export sales of corn. Meanwhile country offerings here were light. The close was firm, ⅛c to ⅞ to 1c net higher with July 64¼ to ⅜c.

Oats started unchanged to ⅛c off, July 39¾ to ⅞c and then rallied a little.

Provisions were weak.

REMINISCENCES OF GRANT'S LIFE IN GALENA, ILLINOIS ARE TOLD BY MADISON MAN

MADISON, Wis.—With citizens the country over celebrating today as the centenary of Gen. U. S. Grant's birthday there are many in Wisconsin who personally saw the famous Civil War leader. Probably none of these now alive knew him from a more intimate side than did Charles L. Harper of the state superintendent's office. Mr. Harper was raiser near Hazel Green and Galena and has vivid recollections of Grant as a leather salesman and as a soldier.

"At the time I first knew Grant he was in the leather store of Grant and Perkins at Galena," said Mr. Harper today. "At that time I was about 14 living on a farm near Hazel Green, ten miles from Galena. Grant had returned to this store after having been a Captain in the regular army.

Collected Bills for Firm

"Grant used to ride through our section of the country representing his firm and collecting bills. I remember that they later told the story on this unassuming appearing man that he was sent to collect a bill up the river. He spent two or three days there and finally came home without ever having enough "sand" to see the man who owed the money.

"When war was declared there was a great war meeting held in Galena. Settlers came from miles around and there were several prominent speakers. Grant was made chairman of the meeting because he had served with the regulars. All these speakers told how the war would be over in a few months. Grant said nothing until all were through and then he called a man to take his seat while he spoke. He said at that time he knew the leaders on the other side, that he had gone to school with them, that he knew of their ability and their courage and prophesized that the war would not be a short one.

Headed War Volunteers

"Shortly afterwards Grant was made Captain of our volunteer company of Galena and Hazel Green boys. They then went to Springfield. Here the Wisconsin men demanded that Captain Grant be made Colonel of the regiment. Gov. Yates of Illinois acceded to this request and Grant became Colonel of a regiment that had caused four previous Colonels to resign. He gave the boys plenty of drilling and there was no more trouble. We did not see Grant again until the war closed.

"When the war was over Grant returned to Galena. A platform was erected on the west side of Main street with an arched top. From miles and miles the people came pouring into Galena. You could not get within a quarter of a mile of the town before you had to hitch the team. Being a lad of eighteen I managed to get within 25 feet of the platform but shortly the crowd was so jammed that you could not have put a lath in beside me. On the platform sat Gov. W. E. Smith of this state, the visiting Governors of Illinois and Iowa and John A. Logan with Grant. When Grant spoke it was with a very quiet tone that did not begin to reach his vast audience.

Democratic and Congenial

"Grant was always reticent in a crowd. He was so everlastingly democratic and congenial. He was well dressed and well groomed but never stylish. My uncle, Jefferson Crawford, was a most ardent supporter of Grant's and I came to know him and of him very well. If Grant had a good horse, a good road, and a good cigar he was happy.

"After his tour of the world he was given another reception. I remember that he sat in a carven oak chair and was visibly embarrassed. Finally the miners heard he was home and came in until they filled the street. Then Grant went on the porch and spoke to them. He spoke on their war experiences for many had served with him. He had no polished, set speech but just told them of the times they had been through together. When the speech was over Finnegan went to General Grant and said 'General Grant—and it is I that am glad to see you. Don't you remember me? We were at Vicksburg together?'

" 'No, I am afraid I don't remember seeing you for I was pretty busy with the rest of the boys,' replied the General.

Irishman Breaks Ice

" 'Faith and we were and we won out,' said the Irishman and his jolly words broke the tension for the General. He was himself for the rest of the reception.

"If there is any one thing I would say about my impressions of General Grant is that he was made for a purpose which he later accomplished. Quiet and reticent, he would never impress one as a great man but he did a great work and was the idol of the people of southern Wisconsin around his home as elsewhere."

WISCONSIN CITIES PASSING LOCAL DRY ORDINANCES

MADISON, Wis.—Local prohibition enforcement ordinances are being enacted by a number of cities of the state as the result of an opinion of Attorney General Morgan, given some months ago, that municipalities might lawfully enact penal dry laws enforced by local officers, W. Stanley Smith, prohibition commissioner, reports.

By passing local enforcement laws, cities are able to receive the fines imposed for their own use, while all collections made under the state law go to the state school fund. Largely to take advantage of this feature of the act, several municipalities are said to have taken the lead in enactment of enforcement measures of their own.

All persons tried under a municipal prohibition ordinance are subject to prosecution for violation of the state statute as well, Commissioner Smith pointed out. Just how successful local enforcement is, has not yet been tested, he said.

The differences that arise in most families are indifferences.
